MODERATOR OF STATE COUNCIL FILLS PULPIT

Rev. E. A. Keaton Calls For Careful Judgment In Choosing Pastor

MEETINGS TO DRAW MANY

Schedule Of Services For Big Religious Confab Disclosed

"Too many churches are looking for absolute perfection from their pastor as to the service he renders, but seem unwilling to obligate themselves to him any further than to say 'Brother, I'll pray for you,'" the Rev. E. A. Keaton, Chillicothe moderator of the Council of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union of Ohio, said Wednesday in his annual address to the council at the opening session at the Mount of Praise.

"If he (a pastor) is to be successful, he must be freed from financial worries as far as possible for the support of himself and his family," the Rev. Mr. Keaton said. "A pastor, to succeed, must be more than just a good preacher, he must be a leader."

"Then there is the matter of choosing a pastor. Too many churches have been influenced in this matter by their likes and dislikes with little or no regard for his pastoral qualifications and his ability to adapt himself to the environment of the community. It may be possible for a good preacher to be wrongly located, and thus me a misfit both in the church and community, and work a hardship on all concerned. To safeguard this important matter, there may have to be an unselfish, impartial medium of contact between the pastor and the church, to wisely assist in the guiding of the church to the pastor needed, and (Continued on Page Six)

Police declined to reveal the full contents of two notes which she left.

Sawyer to Meet Party Leaders Next Tuesday

Circleville Woman Member of Central Committee Called for Conference

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18—(UP)—Democratic nominees for state offices, congress and the Ohio Supreme court today were invited to meet with Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, the party's gubernatorial nominee, here next Thursday to determine a campaign plan that will be presented the state central committee the following day.

Arthur L. Limbach, New Philadelphia, is slated to become head of the state executive committee, succeeding Francis Poulson of Cleveland. Miss Catherine Carter, Cincinnati, is expected to replace Mrs. Myrna Smith as secretary of the executive committee.

Miss Carter is treasurer of the State Federation of Democratic Women.

Earl H. Hanefeld, Ottawa, veteran chairman of the state central committee and a member of Gov. Martin L. Davey's cabinet as director of agriculture, is not expected to be retained.

Four Considered

J. Fuller Trump, Springfield; Daniel P. Holzemer, Toledo; Edward T. Dixon, Cincinnati, and C. V. Beatty, East Liverpool, were said to be under consideration for the chairmanship.

"The Ohioan," the weekly newspaper which the Democratic organization published during the regime of Gov. Davey, is expected to be abandoned by Sawyer controlled group.

Members of the State Central committee who will meet here Aug. 24 to plan the Democratic campaign include:

A. A. Horstman and Ann Makley, Dayton; Francis W. Durbin, Lima; Pearl E. Smalley, Celina; Lulu M. Grothouse, Van Wert; George D. Nye, Waverly; Margaret Moore, Springfield; M. A. McMahon, Kenton; Harriet B. Stuart, Bucyrus; Olivia Talbot Hays, Circleville; J. E. Herman, Sandusky; and Grace S. Stage, Marietta.

Emil J. Kauffman, Canton; Ann Ryan, Canton; E. B. Kallmerton, Mansfield; Zella M. Bittinger, Ashland; and Marie M. Dickson, Stuebenville.

Carl C. Leist, solicitor, told councilmen that letters have been received from P. W. A. asking whether the city would be able to go ahead on any one of the projects with bonds issued without a vote of the people. Mr. Leist said it was estimated that council could issue about $17,000 worth of bonds by Fall without a popular vote. This information was to be sent to W. P. A. by Saturday.

"Our people voted 'no' on all three proposals and I don't think council at this time should take any action," Councilman Frank Lynch said. "I would like to have seen the hospital addition go across. Everything in council has been hurry, hurry. I am in favor of slowing up." There were no other expressions from councilmen so Mr. Leist was given the understanding that the three questions were to be dropped.

Certificates from the board of elections showing the defeat of bond issues for an addition to the Berger hospital, an addition to the city building, and a boulevard lighting system in the downtown district, were received by council. The city's share of the projects included $10,000 for the hospital addition, $9,000 for the boulevard lights, and $12,000 for the city building addition.

Circleville's three proposed projects under P. W. A. defeated by voters in the primary election, were "buried" by council Wednesday night.

POLICE RAIDERS TRYING TO FIND 'MAD BUTCHER'

Cleveland Squads, Directed By Director Ness, Clean Out Shacks, Hovels

NEARLY 100 PUT IN JAIL

Safety Chief Hopes Numerous Clues Will Lead To Killer Of Dozen Persons

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18—(UP)—Police raiding squads went into action today against the "Mad Butcher of Kingsbury Run," confident that although he had eluded them for four years and 13 murderers, they were on the trail he has made within the last month.

Led by Elliott Ness, city safety director, the raiders made a sortie into the Cuyahoga mud flats early today and rounded up 40 squatters from dismal shacks and hovels. The flats are near the waterfront dump, where two dissected and decomposed bodies, wrapped in packages, were found Monday evening—victims No. 12 and 13.

Two paper boxes, into which parts of victim No. 12, an unidentified woman, were stuffed, had been traced to public markets. They had been discarded a month ago.

"The killer's changing his technique," Ness said.

Lottery Banker Claims Numbers Gang Cheated

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(UP)—The Dutch Schultz policy racket gang, which Tammany Leader James J. Hines is accused of protecting, cheated its employees of promised profits, Wilfred Brunder, Negro lottery banker, testified today at Hines conspiracy trial.

Brunder was recalled to the stand today in District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's effort to break the policy racket and put Hines in prison for his alleged bribing of public officials to prevent prosecution of the racketeers.

Already, one witness had pointed at Hines and said that he, a powerful district leader of Tammany Hall, had gone to Schultz's apartment in March, 1932, and sold his influence for $1,000 down and $500 a week.

The witness was George Weinberg, Schultz's district manager for Harlem and one of the three survivors of the mob who pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence against Hines. He said he was present at the apartment conference, saw Hines get the first thousand, and discussed with him ways of keeping police away from lottery headquarters and preventing more "important" gangsters going to jail.

Weinberg was called at Judge Ferdinand Pecora's insistence that Dewey first present some evidence connecting Hines with the alleged lottery conspiracy, before he went into the mob's history.

The first witness called for today was Wilfred Brunder, a west Indian negro who ran a $1,000,000-a-year lottery in Harlem before he went to jail for a brief term in 1931 and returned to find that the Schultz gang had muscled in.

Brunder was called yesterday (Continued on Page Six)

F. D. R. PLEDGES U. S. ASSISTANCE FOR CANADIANS

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 18—(UP)—President Roosevelt told an audience at Queens university today that "the people of the United States will not stand idly by" if Canada is threatened by a foreign power.

In an address pitched on the theme of good neighborliness among the nations of the American continent, Mr. Roosevelt spoke ominously of "wanton brutality" and "undemocratic regimentation" in other nations.

"We in the Americas are no longer a far away continent, to which the eddies of controversies beyond the seas could bring no interest and no harm," he said. "Instead, we in the Americas have become a consideration to every propaganda office and to every general staff beyond the seas. The vast amount of our resources, the vigor of our commerce and the strength of our men have made us vital factors in world peace whether we choose or not."

"Happily, you and we, in friendship and in entire understanding, can look clear-eyed at these possibilities, resolving to leave no pathway unexplored and no technique undeveloped which may, if our hopes are realized, contribute to the peace of the world. Even if those hopes are disappointed, we can assure each other that this hemisphere at least shall remain a strong citadel wherein civilization can flourish unimpeded."

"The Dominion of Canada is part of the sisterhood of the British nation. I give you assurance that the people of the United States will not stand idly by if domination of Canadian soil is threatened by any other empire."

He was ceremoniously escorted to Queens university stadium where he was presented an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

Poles are arriving for line construction. Hardware will be installed on them before they are erected. It is believed actual construction will start within the next week. To date no construction is under way in the county.

Marvin Steely, director of the cooperative, said reports that actual construction had started in Monroe township were incorrect.

MEDIATOR CALLS ON HENLEIN TO PREVENT CRISIS

Germans Reject Government Proposal For Basis Of Settlement

PARTY CHIEF ADAMANT

Runciman Motor To Home Of Prince For Conference With Leader

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 18—(UP)—Viscount Runciman, British mediator, met Kourad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten German party, today in an effort to prevent collapse of Czech minority negotiations.

Runciman motored to Rothenhaus where he met Henlein at the estate of Prince Max Egon Von Hohenlohe, after the Sudeten rejected government proposals as a basis of negotiation.

Sudeten leaders indicated that they expected Runciman to "take immediate action" to prevent a breakdown of the parleys and warned that Sudeten German patience was rapidly being exhausted.

Ernst Kuntz, parliamentary leader of the party, said at a meeting with government negotiators yesterday that the government's own minority proposals were not acceptable even as a basis for negotiations.

Strong Words Used

Kuntz used strong language. He said that the patience of the German population of Czechoslovakia "which has never seen a sign of goodwill on your part may be less than our own patience." He asserted that it was a "dangerous" sign that the Czechoslovak officers' league could issue a manifesto opposing concessions. He "warned" that negotiations could continue only if goodwill were shown by Czech newspapers, organizations and public authorities.

Kuntz asserted that the government's minority proposals were nothing more than a codification of constitutional provisions which caused present conditions.

PRO-JAPANESE CHINESE SHOOT CHIEF OF POLICE

SHANGHAI, Aug. 18—(UP)—Loh Lien-Kwe, Chinese superintendent of the International Settlement police, was assassinated today by five Chinese gunmen believed to be members of the pro-Japanese terrorist gang, "The Yellow Way Society."

The terrorists emptied two automatic mausers and three revolvers as Loh stepped out of his automobile in front of the Central hotel. His chauffeur and a by-stander were wounded. The assassins walked leisurely off during the excitement.

"Baby Blimp" Named

Loh was recently appointed to head an investigation into the activities of pro-Japanese terrorists. Yesterday he issued to the press police records and photographs of Zang Yu-Chin, 350 pound leader of the society, dubbed the "Baby Blimp."

Settlement police claimed that Zang had taken refuge in the Japanese guarded New Asia hotel in Hongkew. They charged that Zang was directing terrorist activities from the hotel.

Loh's duties as police superintendent included aiding United States marines and other foreign troops in rounding up Japanese and Chinese terrorists.

CHURCH ACTIVE IN CIRCLEVILLE FOR 28 YEARS

THREE SONS PREACHING

12 At Initial Service; Number Of Members Now Past 200

Circleville's Church of Christ in Christian Union, E. Ohio street, was founded 28 years ago by the Rev. O. L. Ferguson, the present pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Ferguson, who was active in bringing the Mount of Praise to Circleville in 1918, is treasurer of the camp committee. He handles the purchasing of supplies for the sessions.

When the Circleville church was founded in 1910 it had a charter membership of 33 persons. The congregation now numbers more than 200. Three sons of the pastor are in the ministry. Paul is pastor at Waverly, Grayson at South Solon and Roy at Sedalia.

First services of the Circleville church were conducted in a building on W. Mound street now used by the Circleville Oil Co. Twelve persons attended the first service. At that time the Rev. Mr. Ferguson resided in Washington C. H. and came to Circleville every two weeks to conduct services.

The congregation grew steadily until in 1911 the church was erected on E. Ohio street. The building has been enlarged three times.

The Rev. Mr. Ferguson has been active in the real estate business since coming to Circleville. He has erected seven homes and remodeled one.

KING SNAKE VANQUISHES RATTLER IN ONE ROUND

LEMON COVE, Cal. (UP) — Mr. and Mrs. Len Bequette witnessed a royal battle here between a king snake and a rattlesnake that ended in a real finish for the rattler.

The king snake, oblivious of the presence of human beings, crawled up on the rattler, wrapped itself around the latter's body, squeezed it to death, and then worked up towards the rattler's head, which it began to swallow. Within an hour and a half, the king snake had swallowed half of the rattler and by the next morning the rattler was entirely consumed.

Mimic Actress Willing if---

"I would gladly marry Paul if he asked me . . ." So said Sheila Barrett, mimic actress, to newsmen in New York concerning her reported romance with Paul Gallico, the well-known newspaper writer now in South Devon, England. Miss Barrett showed newsmen a cable she sent Gallico which read: "Great hooey in America. Seems we're going to be married. It's causing me more trouble than it will ever cause you. Your buddy and dream princess, Sheila." Gallico, learning of reports of an engagement with Miss Barrett, told reporters: "I am not engaged to Sheila Barrett or anybody. I am not thinking of marriage. Therefore all talk of my engagement or marriage to anyone is untrue."

ROBOTS REPORT ON COSMIC RAY

PASADENA, Cal., Aug. 18 — (UP)—Ten self-recording electroscopes, sent into the stratosphere by small balloons to check on cosmic rays, have all been returned by the finders to the California Institute of Technology.

All of the sensitive instruments were sent back in a new record for speedy recovery.

Six of the cosmic ray electroscopes were released from Bismarck, N. D., and four from Oklahoma City.

Each instrument was carried aloft by a tandem of 10 balloons, the highest going to 85,000 feet, with 40,000 feet the minimum altitude attained.

Each of the instruments returned brought the finder $5. One woman in North Dakota reported that as she sought to untangle the instrument and parachute, with which it had descended to earth, one of the balloons that had not burst exploded in her face, but her only concern was to save the instrument.

The purpose of the flights was to obtain more accurate determination of how cosmic radiation varies with altitude.

Of the 43 electroscopes that have been sent into the stratosphere since 1934 all but five have been returned. One was lost in Canada and four in India.

Each flight furnished research workers with about one foot of motion picture film recordings of cosmic activities at various elevations.

FARM DEVOTED TO LIFE SAVING

WOODWORTH, Wis., Aug. 18 —(UP)—The "crops" of a farm near here have saved thousands of lives.

Vaccines, toxins, toxoids, hormones and other biological products, are the harvests of the United States Standard Products laboratory farm. From here serums are sent to hospitals throughout the country, sometimes flown by airplane to the bedside of a patient.

More than 80 persons are employed caring for the herds of 70 horses, 1,200 sheep and thousands of white rats, mice, guinea pigs, pigeons, calves and other animals which produce the serums, and in inoculating the animals to produce the valuable fluids.

The horses are stabled in laboratory-clean stalls, fed on special diets and pastured on the finest grass. Some of the horses, weighing less than a ton themselves, have produced more than a ton of blood for scientific cures, according to Floyd H. Eggert, youthful director of the serum farm.

Retired horses are brought to diets. Their food is high in blood the farm and placed on special producing elements.

After the first injection of toxoid—tetanus toxin treated to remove its poisonous qualities—the horse loafs for six months in the pasture and in its stall. Then it goes to work receiving regular injections.

When it can stand heavy doses of toxoid without ill effects it is ready to be bled.

Horses can be bled with safety every two months, according to Eggert.

THREE HOUSING PROJECTS HELP MANY FAMILIES

Two Begin Second Year Of Service In Cleveland, Third Operating

LOW RENTALS PROVIDED

City To Expend Millions For Another Major Structure

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Aug. 15.—Opened for occupancy exactly one year ago, Cedar Central and Outhwaite, the government's two low-rent slum clearance housing projects in Cleveland, Ohio, entered on their second year this week practically 100 percent tenanted.

Cedar Central provides safe and sanitary living quarters for 650 families, who formerly resided in Cleveland slums, at shelter rentals averaging $6.01 per room per month. It was developed at a cost of $3,384,000.

The Outhwaite project, built at a cost of $3,564,000 on the site of one of Cleveland's worst slums, is now rehousing 579 families of low income, who formerly lived under insanitary and substandard conditions. They pay a shelter rental of $5.07 per room per month. In each instance there is a small charge for household utilities added to the base rent.

A third Cleveland project under this program—Lakeview Terrace—will observe the first anniversary of its opening on Oct. 1 and likewise is practically 100 percent occupied. Built on a 22-acre slum site at a cost of $3,800,000, it provides 620 dwellings for former slum dwellers at base rents which average $6.19 per room per month.

Three Regarded Highly
Cedar Central, Outhwaite and Lakeview Terrace are regarded as outstanding examples of pioneering by the government in slum clearance and low-rent rehousing for slum dwellers begun in 1934 under the Public Works Administration.

The three projects are featured by grounds which provide ample space for lawns, walks, drives and play areas. Social units, central laundries and stores are available to the tenants, and each kitchen is equipped with gas range and electric refrigerator. The projects are now under the supervision of the United States Housing Authority, having been transferred from PWA by President Roosevelt on the creation of the USHA and the appointment of Nathan Straus as the first administrator on Nov. 1, 1937.

Meanwhile Cleveland is expanding slum clearance and low-rent housing under the United States Housing Act of 1937, in which the USHA is authorized to lend local housing authorities 90 percent of the development cost of a housing project and then contribute an annual subsidy to assure that rents will remain within the reach of low-income families.

Cleveland has obtained a USHA loan of $9,153,000 for construction of a $10,170,000 project that will provide an additional 1,804 decent, safe and sanitary homes for low income families who are still forced to live in the city's slums.

New Hollanders Inquire About Town Waterworks

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Two of "the boys" of New Holland, Briggs and Bryant, (may have given name, but that don't matter) were here yesterday, Wednesday afternoon, making an inquiry visit about our waterworks system. They have in mind the installation of a plant for their village. We did all we could to get the right connection for them, and if they failed this time to drive over today when not so many are on vacation as on Wednesday afternoon.

In a letter received a few days ago by Mrs. Alma Jonas from her cousin, Arthur Bradley, who is located at Limon, Costa Rica, Central America, he says in part: "I well remember the first bananas that were sold in Ashville by Hoffhines and Hoover. They cost five cents each and us boys would get a nickel some way, invest it in one of these bananas and divide it. But now here on this banana plantation operated by Americans, labor mostly performed by the native people, I am doing nothing but rush bananas to the states, two to three hundred thousand stems a week year in and year out. And every kind of citrus fruit that grows in the world, is found here, but growing bananas is our business. I like the country fine though it is very hot and rains two-thirds of the time. We do not mind the rain or heat, the ocean keeps it cool at nights. The day starts at 5 o'clock. No long and short days here, all the same length the year around. My contract with the company continues for another year and I expect to be here for at least that long."

—Ashville—
This Arthur Bradley who wrote this letter is a former Ashville boy and while here learned telegraphy with Moody Holiday and became an expert at it. That's how it happens that he has the place he holds in directing the shipment of those millions of bananas.

—Ashville—
Yesterday morning while waiting for "the wagon" to carry our item down to The Herald office, a couple of indie were waiting to board the same conveyance to get to the County Seat where they are employed at repairing the county free, children's school books. Said these books had had bad usage, torn and marked up and were almost beyond the repair stage. And we are just wondering on whose shoulders this mutilation of public property belongs? We'll place the blame on that nice soft paddle teacher has stored away near by and which "instrument" should every so often make a book inspection. We are sure that would help a lot in this book repair work.

—Ashville—
The Lutheran Brotherhood chicken roast out at the park yesterday was fairly well attended many being away on vacation. But the attendance did not effect the quality of the roast fowls and everybody had a fine good time and are looking forward to the next one a year ahead. The Methodist had a fine crowd at their chicken supper yesterday evening at the church dining room and when the dishes all get washed and the receipts figured up in full we'll tell the rest tomorrow.

And don't forget the band concert tonight, drum major and everything.

STEEL UPSWING REDUCES OHIO'S JOBLESS ARMY

Industrial State Shows
General Improvement
As Hopeful Sign

RECOVERY PREDICTED

Stronger Retail Trading
Cited at Cleveland
As Indication

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11 (UP)—Visible business straws-in-the-wind in industrial Ohio are pointing the way, observers hope, to a national recovery.

Many business leaders in this only state which has eight cities of more than 100,000 population feel that the prophecy of the stock market is borne out in business upturns and that a measure of prosperity lies ahead.

In Ohio, signs of encouragement are seen in:

The rapid rise of steel operations; Improvement in retail trade. Five weeks of consecutive improvement in department-store business in this federal reserve district.

More Jobs in Toledo
In Toledo, a city of 300,000 and Ohio's third in population, the Libby-Owens-Ford Glass company has called back more than 1,000 men in its plant at suburban Rossford.

Machine-tool makers in Toledo are increasingly active with orders for 1939 automobiles, due for a showing and sale in early November.

At downstate Massillon, almost a part of generally bustling Canton Republic Steel corporation has called 500 men back to work.

No Rise in WPA Rosts
Here in Cleveland, the White Motor company plans to go on a five-day week.

The White Sewing Machine company, also with headquarters in this city of a million, reports a definite business pickup since mid-June.

At Painesville, 30 miles east of Cleveland, the Industrial Rayon Corporation, one of Cleveland's busiest employers through the depression and recession, is preparing to open a large branch this fall.

The number of applications for WPA employment in Cleveland has remained quiescent recently for the first time in many months. Observers regard it as a sign of industrial upturn.

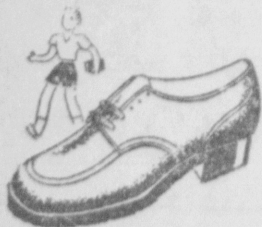

Optimism of business experts is bulwarked by the pickup in steel, in the northern Ohio sector.

An uptrend in steel means more jobs in Cleveland, nearby Lorain, Youngstown—capitol of Ohio's "Little Ruhr," in the Mahoning Valley—Warren, Niles, Massillon and smaller places.

Construction awards in Greater Cleveland have advanced in the past month sufficiently to warrant the interest of business in lifting more than its eyebrows.

Retail automobile sales also have been running ahead of both the expected Summer and recession trends, a more than casual barometer, prognosticators feel.

FUTURE CO-EDS TOUR COLLEGES

PAINESVILLE, O. Aug. —The Olmstead Travel-Camp — a group of pre-college girls — has completed its seventh annual Summer tour to various college campuses.

The purpose of the tour is to permit the girls to inspect different schools so they may make a wise selection of a college.

The group made the Lake Erie College campus, of Painesville, their last stop on this year's tour. They set out on their trip from Oberlin, O., under the leadership of Mrs. Louise H. Olmstead. After making their last stop at the Lake Erie campus they returned to Oberlin.

The girls comprising the group this year come from widely separated sections of the United States. One was from Omaha, Neb., and another from Chicago.

The Midwest and Ohio were well represented.

At night, instead of staying in hotels, they pitched camp.

A large commissary car carried tents, cots, camp stools, sleeping-bag rolls and other camp equipment. It also carried a fully equipped kitchen. A cook prepared the meals.

The girls traveled in automobiles. Each car held 16 or more passengers. They were open cars equipped with waterproof curtains in case of rain. Individual lockers under the seats provided space for cameras, bathing suits, mess kits and wind-breakers. Large lockers at the rear of the cars held camp suitcases.

The pre-college "tourists" visited about 30 campuses.

BRITISH STUDY FOOD CONTROL

LONDON, Aug. —(UP)—The virtual nationalization of the food industry of Great Britain, and the creation of boards to ensure low prices in the interest of public health are advocated in an unusual document which has been drawn up by a body of eminent scientists and public administrators who have been studying the grave effects of malnutrition in the country.

The memorandum, issued by the Committee Against Malnutrition, points out that the majority of people of Great Britain at present cannot afford to buy certain essential foodstuffs.

Food boards, the scientists say should be established under the control of a responsible cabinet minister to control prices in such a way as to insure supplies which are not at present ensured by the operation of the law of supply and demand.

Marketing Directors Urged
The boards also would market these supplies through public concerns, thus ensuring low prices and good quality.

It is argued that a steadily rising demand for foodstuffs would encourage the producers to be much more enterprising.

Assistance by loans and subsidies, controlled supplies and prices for fertilizer and fodder materials would encourage producers to devote attention mainly to dairy, egg, fruit and vegetable farming, and this would open the way for the importation of wheat, sugar and such like foodstuffs from countries where they are more economically produced.

It also is advocated that the government make itself responsible for free dinners for all school children.

Called of Vital Need
The memorandum concludes: "This is a question of national importance. We trust that from now onward all who have the national welfare at heart will begin to discuss how the problem shall be solved. Clearly the solution is not a simple one. But one of the conflict of ideas there should soon arise some theory of national progress in nutrition that will gain wide public acceptance."

Among the famous scientists contributing to the memorandum were Dr. Julian Huxley, secretary of the Zoological Society; W. E.

"Equal Rights to All . . . Special Privileges to None"

This is the fundamental principle upon which the American government was founded and which made possible the development of the nation.

Yet, the railroads—America's largest corporate industry and its essential transportation agency—are denied equal rights, while their competitors are given special privileges. Hence, the critical railroad situation.

If rigid rate regulations and restrictions are sound public policy for railroads, then they are equally sound for other forms of transportation.

If it is sound policy for the taxpayers to furnish airports and beacon lights for airplanes; canalized rivers and locks and dams for boats and barges; and highways for motor carriers at inadequate charges, then it is equally fair for the taxpayers to furnish terminals, and to build and maintain tracks for railroads.

If it is sound public policy to tax railroad tracks and the cars moving on those tracks, then it is sound to equally tax the carriers of the highways, airways and waterways.

If it is sound public policy for the federal government to finance and operate the Federal Barge Line in competition with privately owned transportation agencies, then it is equally sound for it to operate grocery stores, department stores, factories, filling stations and other businesses.

The railroads, nor any other industry for that matter, cannot survive and prosper if our own government plays favorites—if the favored few are given privileges denied to others.

Perhaps most of our problems could be solved, if the people demand that our public servants strictly observe that fundamental principle, "Equal Rights to All—Special Privileges to None."

That is all the railroads of the country ask—that is, all they are entitled to—but that is now being denied. And, so long as equality of treatment and simple justice is denied, the "railroad problem" will go unsolved.

SHERIFF JAILS PRISON GUARD AS MURDERER

Houston County Official Claims Fugitives Slain In Cold Blood

JURORS IN SESSION

Only One Of Eight Men Remains At Liberty; Six Are Dead

CROCKETT, Tex., Aug. 18.—(UP)—Rob Parker, keeper of the bloodhounds at the Eastham state prison farm, was in the Houston county jail today charged with murdering an escaped convict who had offered to surrender.

The charge was filed by Sheriff Archie Maples, member of the posse that had been searching for John Hendrix Frazier, 21, of Dallas, and Raymond Wilkerson, 24, of Fort Worth. When a warrant had been issued charging Parker with killing Frazier maliciously, Maples went to the prison and placed Parker under arrest. Wilkerson also was killed.

Both of those boys were unarmed and were shot down in cold blood," Maples said. "He was not justified in firing on them."

Parker denied that the convicts had offered to surrender peacefully. He said he shot after he had commanded them to halt and they had not complied.

Goos to Grand Jury

Maples said he would submit his case to the county grand jury, which is in session. Leon Lusk, attorney, declined to have anything to do with the case until he was convinced that the charge against Parker was justified.

"The sheriff filed the charge on the basis of his own observation of the shooting," Lusk said.

Frazier and Wilkerson were two of eight convicts who broke out of the prison farm earlier in the week. Six of the eight are dead. A seventh surrendered and one, Roy King, 26, still is at large.

Authorities believed King might have drowned in the Trinity river, meeting the same fate as two of his companions, Frank Johnson, 23, and Leonard Smith, 25. Jack Knisley, 25, and Elmer Aaron, 25, like Frazier and Wilkerson, were killed by officers' gunfire.

John Greer, guard at Eastham, was wounded critically when he attempted to halt the convicts as they made their break. He was given little chance to recover.

Maples was the only officer who claimed to have seen Parker fire at Frazier and Wilkerson. He indicated that after he presented his evidence to the county grand jury he would leave it to the jurors to decide whether Parker should be prosecuted.

JOHN Crowley, New York J.W.P.A. worker and a World War veteran, has offered to give one of his two good eyes to Helaine Judith Colan, Chicago's "gloma baby", in an effort to save the child in her fight against blindness. Baby Colan, now in New York undergoing examination, is the infant whose left eye was removed several months ago following a "jury" decision to perform the operation. Her other eye now is threatened with the disease.

GERMAN COLONY IN PHILIPPINES PUT IN UPROAR

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 18.—(UP)—German Consul G. A. Sakowsky tonight ordered that all Reich nationals immediately resign from membership in the German Club here because of the club's failure to expel three members of German-Jewish descent. The ultimatum threw the small German colony into an uproar.

Sakowsky previously had indicated he favored such action but had not demanded it and his wishes had not been carried out by members.

A minority of the club's members were said to be Nazi sympathizers.

The club is known as a social organization. It is incorporated under the laws of the Philippines and members said Sakowsky was acting improperly in attempting to force the expulsions.

It was reported that Sakowsky would request Prince Louis Ferdinand not to accept the club's hospitality when he arrives here on a visit Aug. 27.

FAMILY OF FOUR ESCAPES DEATH IN HOUSE FIRE

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 18.—(UP)—Police today sought to determine the identity of the person or persons who attempted to burn a family of four to death.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dashezky and their two children were awakened by smoke and flames in their house. When they tried to escape they found the doors wired shut. They crawled out windows to escape being trapped in the house.

Firemen said they found that rags soaked in gasoline had been placed in the home and fired.

NATIONAL GUARD UNIT TO LEAVE FOR CAMP KNOX

Circleville members of the Service Battery, 136th field artillery, Ohio National Guard, will leave Friday for their annual camp at Camp Knox, Ky.

Members will assemble at the Armory at 9 o'clock. They will be served a meal before leaving by truck. The guardsmen will camp Friday night at Sharon woods, near Cincinnati, and move into Camp Knox on Saturday. They will remain in camp for 18 days.

Commissioned officers of the service battery are: Captain William V. Miller, Columbus, and Lieutenants Joseph M. Lynch, Paul L. Bowsher and Thomas J. Drum, Circleville. Non-commissioned officers are Master Sergeant Fred H. Boggs, First Sergeant Ezra L. Pritchard, Staff Sergeant Ellsworth Coffland, Mess Sergeant Raymond Greer, Sergeants Blenard Throckmorton and William F. Weller, and Corporals Raymond Arledge, Harold Hoy, Robert Denney and Fred Bowsher, all of Circleville.

A. B. VLEREBOME TO DIRECT M. E. MEETING AGAIN

Trustees of the Lancaster campground association, where Methodist church groups gather annually, voted to install a new water system for 1939 when they adjourned their 1938 session this week. The system will be ready for use when the next camp period begins.

H. W. Plum, N. Court street, was re-elected secretary of the campground association at the closing meeting. Other officers are A. B. Vlerébome, Lancaster, president; the Rev. C. F. Bowman, Norwood, vice president; and Amos Thomas, Lancaster, treasurer. Five directors elected this year included E. A. Garrison, Columbus, the Rev. J. H. Ludlow, Thornville; Prof. Raymond Slutz, Athens, and Mrs. D. H. Jemson, Cincinnati. The association with a faculty of 50 provided training for 1,143 young folk during the last camp session.

O'CONNOR TAKES AIR TONIGHT TO RAP NEW DEAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(UP)—Rep. John J. O'Connor, Democratic chairman of the house rules committee whom President Roosevelt has placed on his "purge" list, will appeal to the nation tonight in a speech broadcast over the Columbia broadcasting system at 7:45.

He said he would give his reasons for having opposed the President's reorganization bill and other New Deal measures, and elaborate on his previous charges that the New Deal was installing a dictatorship.

REFORM DRIVE TO CUT TEXAS TAXES STARTS

Unicameral Union Hopes For Referendum On One House Plan

SOLO LEADS EFFORT

Aid Of W. Lee O'Daniel To Be Solicited By Those Backing Movement

AMARILLO, Tex., Aug. 18 (UP)—A group of Texas taxpayers, prompted by the success of a unicameral legislature in Nebraska, have started a statewide drive to bring the one-house system to Texas.

The campaign was organized by the Amarillo group, "the Unicameral Union," headed by W. A. Askew. Petitions in the hands of local sponsors throughout the state found ready response, and the Unicameral Union hopes to achieve a double purpose by having all signers pay a 10-cent fee. The money will be used to finance the campaign and the payment is expected to discourage from signing those persons not genuinely interested in the movement.

State Senator is Leader

The unicameral system has been discussed considerably in Texas during the past four years. Its chief advocate is State Sen. C. H. Nelson of Lubbock, who ran third in the race for lieutenant-governor last month. Nevertheless, surveys have indicated surprising interest among the voters of the state.

The Unicameral Union will seek to have the legislature next year submit the question to a vote of the people. Among those whose aid has been solicited is W. Lee O'Daniel, Fort Worth flour salesman nominated for governor.

Appeal to O'Daniel

"The purpose of the Unicameral Union is a one-house legislature, efficiency and economy," O'Daniel was told. "Industry, agriculture, labor and capital prosper in Nebraska. Why not a unicameral legislature for Texas?"

The notice listed several taxes which other states have but which Nebraska does not. These include corporation, personal income, general income, luxury, and cigarette taxes. The union also declared that Nebraska is one of three O'Daniel has not expressed himself on the unicameral question, although he said after his victory at the polls that he hoped to put into effect "some very definite" ideas about efficiency and economy.

THE CRATE

THE Corrigan crate has been repaired and relicensed. Corrigan hopes to turn up in it in California before long. This time, however, he expects to make several stops in cities which have expressed a desire to honor him. The inhabitants of these cities may be trusted to tell Corrigan where he is at the time, and in which direction he should start out to get to the next destination to the westward.

The owner maintains that the old orange crate is still a pretty good ship and always gets him somewhere, though not always where he thinks it will when he starts out. He seems to give life to the words of the old song, "We don't know where we're going, but we're on our way." The world will watch with interest the direction taken in the next flight of the crate to California.

One point, however, is puzzling. Corrigan referred to his plane as "that old orange crate." Orange? Orange? And here we thought all the time that it was green!

BY AIR AND WATER

AFTER a Summer of spectacular flights across the Atlantic and news of others less showy by firms expecting to establish transoceanic air service before long, it is obvious that regular travel across the sea by air, though still daring, is here. How can the shipping concerns keep up with the trend?

The American Export Lines have placed an order for the first four of ten ships to be built during a ten-year period. The design will allow for a larger cargo capacity and more comfortable quarters for crew and passengers than exist in the firm's present vessels. They are expected to be the fastest ships in the United States Mediterranean service—not super-liners, competing with airplanes, but good, fast ships. Besides this, the company is planning to supplement its ships with a new air service of its own.

In other words, this concern, instead of fighting a new method, plans to utilize it. Far sighted policy of this kind might save many a business now fighting a losing struggle to hold to old ways in a new world.

There are lots of "golf widows" but no "cricket widows" says an English expert. Golf widowhood is mitigated by the fact that so many wives play golf themselves, and no women ever seem to play cricket. So the mystery deepens.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up and about the ville at the usual hour, finding everything serene, the weather being too hot for anything except sunstroke to happen. And the corn continues growing. Never saw anything like it. Wonder how the farmers will be able to harvest some of it. Met H. B. Swearingen and apologized for inability to attend the Garden Club dinner at his home, having accepted the invitation without realizing that I had a previous engagement in the Rotary-Kiwanis ball game. Just can't forget the tilt. Every step I take reminds me of the fracas. Muscles that scream out in protest of that violent exercise and warning against such future foolishness.

Here comes Grocer Elmer Stebleton all excited about his vacation in the North Woods for two weeks beginning Sunday. Went up there last year for the first time at the suggestion of the scrivener and now says that his vacations are set for life. Let him have the "block and tackle" with which Mayor Bill pulled out all his big fish up on the Goulais in June. Muskies should be hitting up there now and that surf casting rod and reel probably will be none too large.

Chatted with Irv Kinsey and passed the time of day with Willie Morris, the realtor. Wonder what ever happened to our local building boom? It started off in a big way two years ago, slowed down to a trot last Summer and this season is barely moving. The big activity of the Summer was at the Camp Ground and they really have done a lot of work there. Much painting and minor improvements going on around the ville and the new Hanley sign lights up much of East Main street. That really is a fine sign, taking first place locally in attractiveness.

Noted signs of activity at the school buildings. It will not be long now until the boys and girls return to wrestle with the Three Rs. Gave T. P. Brown a lift on North Court street and he declared: "It is nice of you to wait and give a ride to an old man." Nothing nice about it; just appreciation of the oldsters. Those older men and women made our present day ville possible. They built it and kept it together for those of us who came along later, providing us with a grand place to live and work. The pleasure of helping one of them is all mine.

Hear talk again of the need of a county gymnasium and general meeting place. Noted in the prints that Ottawa, the tiny county seat of Putnam county, is building a $80,000 auditorium with the bulk of expense borne by the government. Ottawa is less than a third the size of our town. Incidentally, it has an adequate street lighting system, too.

Home in the early evening, occupying a lawn chair in the back yard and watching the antics of the pup that had been shut alone in the house all day. My, what a grand thing it would be if humans could wax as enthusiastic and happy as a pup. Sat long in the fine breeze that bore down on the temperature and by ten o'clock found myself nodding. Moved toward the bedroom then and the first real comfortable night of sleep in three weeks.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

MARVIN MCINTYRE PULLED PUNCH
WASHINGTON — "The Purge Punch-Puller" is the new title given to White House Secretary Marvin McIntyre by some of the Inner Circle.

Reason for the title is that easy-going Marvin resorts to all sorts of subtleties to pull the punch of the presidential purge, the latest being to start the train at Greenville, S. C., before the President could officially place Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith on the purge list.

Inside story of this was one of the most fascinating dramas in modern politics.

Prior to his arrival in South Carolina, the President had determined not to endorse Governor Olin D. Johnston, who is running for the Senate against Smith. Friends advised Roosevelt that the three-cornered race was too complicated, that South Carolinians would resent outside interference.

However, they reckoned without long-legged Governor Johnston. The Governor hopped on the presidential train while it was still in Georgia and asked to see the President.

"Don't let him go back down the train," said McIntyre, the Punch-Puller of Purges; "he might persuade the boss to change his mind."

ROOSEVELT-HATER

That was exactly what Johnston did. Joe Keenan, forthright Assistant to the Attorney General, led him back to the presidential car, where the Governor, once a mill-hand, did the most persuasive talking of his life.

He pointed out that "Cotton Ed" Smith was a far more bitter enemy of Senator George of Georgia, than if the President was consistent he could not escape giving his opinion of Smith. He reminded Roosevelt that "Cotton Ed" had attacked not only him but Mrs. Roosevelt, and finally he pointed out that "Cotton Ed" had boasted publicly that Roosevelt did not dare come into the State.

"If you don't say anything in South Carolina, Mr. President," warned Governor Johnston, "Cotton Ed will make a public boast up and down the State that you were afraid of him."

So as the train pulled into Greenville, the President went to the rear platform. A crowd of 25,000 awaited him, one of the most responsive of his trip. Newspapersmen, told by McIntyre that there would be no speech in South Carolina, were taken by surprise. They scurried to the tracks in the rear of the car.

Suddenly, when the President had got about two-thirds through his speech, the train began to pull out. Newspapersmen scrambled aboard, some of them almost left behind. The President looked irate. McIntyre, the "Purge Punch-Puller" had waved to the conductor, and the train moved on.

Some of these very modern people who scorn old houses will be telling us next that old paintings, old books and old wines are no good.

They have a shock-absorber now for the "water hammer" that jars a plumbing system. We need one for political campaigns.

Is Tuberculosis Caught From Consumptive?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE QUESTION of whether tuberculosis can be caught from a consumptive is not as simple as it may seem on first sight. The theories on the matter have gone through a number of changes.

A hundred years ago, when very little was known about the cause of tuberculosis, the idea was that it was not contagious at all. Then the French physician, Villemin, pointed out that if a case of consumption were brought into a hospital ward, several other cases would develop there. He was an army physician and he put his conclusions this way: "The consumptive soldier is just as much a danger to his fellows in the regiment, as a sheep with anthrax is to the rest of the herd."

When the cause of tuberculosis—the tubercle bacillus—was discovered, opportunity was afforded for more intensive study of early cases. The conclusions arrived at were that tuberculosis probably always begins in infancy or very early life. It goes through a certain stage of development in childhood. Childhood tuberculosis is entirely different from adult tuberculosis.

Catches It From Adult

The child usually catches tuberculosis from an adult in the family who has an open unsuspected case of tuberculosis of the lungs. The course of the disease depends on the amount of immunity that can be developed—most often the condition gets well in childhood and leaves nothing but a scar. Sometimes it goes on and develops consumption.

The question of whether an adult can catch the disease from another is not entirely settled. One view states flatly that nobody catches tuberculosis after childhood. But there are others who disagree. Myers, for instance, studied groups of medical students and nurses in training—groups that are likely to be exposed to patients with tuberculosis—and found that they did become infected in a far larger percentage than that of the general population.

So the safest thing is to avoid exposure. This especially is true of infants. They frequently are infected by some old member of the household, who has had a chronic bronchitis for years. At least, that is what it is called. Really when an examination is made, it turns out the person has had tuberculosis unsuspected for many years.

CHAPTER 41

IT WAS good to be with Laurie again, even though the Court street room seemed darker and dingier than ever after the light and airiness of Noel's room on the third floor of the Garwood mansion.

Noel's thoughts were with Julian. He was sometimes enigmatic, she knew, but she could not help believing that his "important news" concerned Ruth Chester. There was some little hesitancy about the way Julian had spoken, also the fact that he had said it decidedly would affect their friendship. What else could he mean—except another girl, she asked herself despairingly.

Then she looked at Laurie and saw that she too looked sad. "You and Jimmy still are not seeing each other?" she asked.

Laurie shook her head. "It only seems to make things worse. I should have gone on and married Contepas."

"No, no, Laurie," Noel said earnestly. "Some day things will come right for you and Jimmy. I'm sure of it."

The two girls talked for an hour or so. And then Mrs. Blarson called Noel to the telephone. It was Julian. He said he couldn't get away. Then asked if she could manage to see him on Sunday. She told him she expected to be off for some time on Sunday, and would call him and let him know where she would be.

When Noel went back to the room, Laurie said, "He isn't coming, is he?" She asked the question as if she knew the answer and understood the situation even before Noel nodded.

"Something happened," Noel said dispiritedly, sinking into the wooden rocker.

"I'm afraid it's Ruth Chester again," Laurie said, a flash of anger in her eyes.

Noel sat up quickly. "Why?"

"She probably made some excuse to keep him from coming. You see, she evidently thinks—Laurie faltered, "or maybe it's true, but I simply don't believe it, and you—you mustn't either."

"Laurie, what are you talking about?"

"She just—just acts so possessive toward Doctor Paige lately, and—"

Laurie hesitated again. "There may not be a word of truth in it, Noel, but Ruth Chester told me of the waitresses at the De Luxe that she and Doctor Paige were engaged."

The color drained from Noel's face. That made it look more and more as if Julian's "important news" did concern Ruth Chester. He probably had meant to come and tell her the truth frankly, and then his courage had failed him—could that have been why he didn't come?

And then all the things Julian had said in regard to Ruth came back in mind. He had said that a marriage between himself and Ruth Chester would be most suitable.

Irvin Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vere Thomas, E. Franklin street suffered a severe cut on the left hip when he fell from a tree striking a sharp board.

S. A. Drum entertained the Men's Bible class of the Dresden church to a supper at his home in Salt Creek township.

A heavy rain drenched Circleville after a month of dry weather. Rain was badly needed for late corn and pastures.

A magazine writer asks us how we'd like to earn $500,000, and have only $150,000 left after paying all our taxes. We accept!

able. He had also said that Ruth always managed to get her own way about things.

"I think," Laurie began, almost as if reading Noel's thoughts, "if he does marry her, it will be because she probably has convinced him that she could help him in his career."

"Julian wouldn't marry a girl unless he loved her—or at least thought he did," Noel said with sudden returning confidence.

"She's probably got him hypnotized," Laurie suggested thoughtfully. "She could do it, all right. She's full of tricks."

The two girls went to bed then. Noel was restless and slept very little. The next morning she looked so pale that Laurie felt worried. "I wish I hadn't told you that last night," she said regretfully. "It's really nothing in the world but idle talk. Ruth Chester doesn't hesitate to lie. We both know that."

"I expect it's the truth," Noel answered slowly. "I might as well be prepared for it."

But she found it hard to reconcile Julian's attitude toward her, while at the same time he might be expecting to marry another girl. Still, men were queer. The more you thought you understood them, the less you found you did. They were unknown quantities.

When Laurie left for work, Noel said, "Now, listen, honey, your love story can have a happy ending. You just keep your chin up and wait and see."

Laurie shook her head. "How can it when we're up against a stone wall?" But she did seem happier when she and Noel said goodbye.

Noel started back to the Garwood home early, but before going on to the house, she decided to go past Stone Gate, her former home, and see if there could be any mail. She had been by once or twice before, to find a hastily scrawled letter from her aunt, and a few invitations. She wasn't expecting much mail, as nobody knew where she was.

But, surprisingly, there was a letter from her uncle. It read:

"Dear Noel: I am today depositing to your credit half the amount of the money you loaned me. I shall be able to return the balance in another three months. Am sending this on to Stone Gate as do not know your Paris address. Have a letter from Frankie but with her usual carelessness she forgot to mention it. Love to you both, Your devoted uncle."

So it looked as if the adventure automatically was ended. The money had come just when she had about decided it was no use to go on. She had won in so far as proving to Julian that she did have some of the fighting qualities of her illustrious grandfather. But so far as convincing Julian that she was different from the usual type of society girl—well, she was very far from having accomplished that. Julian evidently had had

Pickaway Club's Party Proves Another Success

60 Members and Friends Attend Function

When the members of the Pickaway Country club and their friends gathered at the club for an open house session it always means a delightful evening of entertainment, and the open house session Wednesday was no exception to the rule. No efforts had been spared by the house committee to plan entertainment for the guests, to say nothing of the delectable buffet supper served at 7 o'clock.

Sixty members and guests made up the party, each one of which entered with enthusiasm into the evening's program. Following the supper, which was served on the spacious porch, the younger folk passed the time dancing in the Old Barn, while the others settled down to an evening of cards at small tables on the porch.

When scores were tallied, bridge favors were won by Mrs. Joseph P. Noecker, who took first in contract. Mrs. Edmund Landis, who took first in auction, and Lemuel Weldon, who received the men's prize in contract.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Grant, Dr. and Mrs. G. D. Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Adkins, Jr. are members of the house committee responsible for the success of the evening.

Mrs. Don Morris of Chillicothe and Henry Bowman of New York were guests from a distance. The next club entertainment listed is the annual Labor Day holiday dance which will be given in the Old Barn, Saturday, September 3. The Casa Rey swing band of Circleville will furnish the dance music on this occasion.

Cave Family Reunion

The 15th annual reunion of the descendants of Benjamin and David Cave, who emigrated from England in 1728 to Virginia, was held in the Art Hall, Lancaster Fairgrounds.

A cake with fifteen candles, presented for the dinner by Mrs. Willis Cave, Circleville, centered the table for the picnic dinner served at noon.

The invocation was given by the Rev. William H. Marshall, Lancaster. The program included a memorial address for Jasper C. Cave and Joseph A. Cave, by Byron L. Cave, Lancaster; resolutions of respect, which had been adopted, were read by Charles N. White of Lancaster. The Rev. William H. Marshall gave an address and Miss Amy McClelland, Laurelville, read selections from McGuffey's Reader, "The Spider and the Fly", and "Speech of Logan, chief of the Mingoes". She also recited from memory selections from McGuffey's First Reader. Short talks were made by W. W. Cave, French Lick, Ind.; William Cave, Chicago, Ill.; Harry Cave, Cincinnati, James L. Johnson, Kirtlandville.

Violin music was furnished by Thomas Vorhees, South Bloomingville and guitar selections by O. D. Johnson, Logan.

Those from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cave, French Lick, Ind.; William Cave, Chicago, Ill.; Harry Cave and family of Cincinnati; Mrs. George Keucker, Wheaton, Ill.; Mrs. Anna Campbell of Paulding.

Officers of the association were reelected including Byron Cave, Lancaster, president; Benjamin Willis Cave, Circleville, vice president; Edward U. Cave, Lancaster, secretary-treasurer.

The date of the next reunion is the third Sunday in August, 1939.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

KEEPING PACE with other modern developments, some of the new type roses are streamlined. Upon examination the buds of these roses will be found to have the same streamlined curves which distinguish the design of automobiles and our modern trains.

One of the recent rose introductions, the buds of which have a streamlined appearance, is Eclipse. The buds of this rose measure two inches or more in length and are gracefully curved and streamlined, as shown in the Garden-Graph. The buds of this sensational rose are also enhanced in appearance by long, ornamental sepals.

This rose produces a single blossom of pure yellow at the end of a long, stiff stem which makes it excellent for cutting purposes. The bloom will have from 22 to 25 petals. In the fall this rose produces exceptionally large blooms.

Many roses which have had proper care during the Summer will be stronger and give larger

Streamlined roses and better blooms in September and October. Cool nights, and less hours of sunlight during the daytime result in blooms of richer colors.

Eggplants and peppers are now bearing. Keep the mature fruit picked so that the younger ones will have a chance to develop.

LINDY'S VISIT TO SOVIET MAY OPEN NEW LINE

Russians May Establish Long Distance Service To United States

LANDING PERMIT NEEDED

Some Officials Scoff At Reports; Scheme Not New One

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—(UP)—Government officials believed today that Charles A. Lindbergh's visit to Moscow may be the forerunner of establishment by the Soviet government of airplane service to the United States.

Information was lacking on reports from abroad that the purpose of his trip to Russia was to study feasibility of air service between Moscow and New York by way of Siberia and Alaska. But officials here said that recent developments indicated that there might be more than a little truth in them.

They emphasized that Soviet Russia has demonstrated by its trans-Polar flights from Moscow to southern California that it has the necessary equipment for long distance, non-stop service.

The Soviet government planned a non-stop, trans-Atlantic flight last May, but abandoned it without explanation. Officials now believe that they understand the reason.

Refueling Necessary

They explained that it would have been necessary for the Russian planes to refuel either in Germany or England. Because it was regarded as highly unlikely that either country would grant landing rights for such a project, officials believe that the Russians decided to concentrate on an overland route through Siberia where connections could be made with American airlines.

Pan-American Airways, for which Lindbergh is a technical adviser, recently began a series of experimental flights from Seattle, Wash., to Juneau, Alaska. These flights are preliminary to establishment of a regular service to Juneau, where connections will be made with Pan-American's subsidiary, the Pacific Alaska Airways, which flies to Fairbanks.

Chicago Youngsters Have Big Time, End In Court

CHICAGO, Aug. 18—(UP)—Little George Kosir, 11, and his gang—big George, Willie, Mattie, Jerry and Smokie—tearfully explained today the cause of South Throop street's boom which rivalled, on a juvenile scale, the glamor of the Klondike gold rush.

The boom started July 8 after little George had found a pickle jar beneath the rear porch of his home. Instead of pickles, the jar contained $940. Little George summoned his pals and the boom was on.

A few of their expenditures, which little George recalled for his parents:

Two bicycles, $70; twelve billboards for friends, $42; one hundred dollars offered in $10 lots to boys who could walk across the top of a huge sign board; twelve flashlights, $7.80; a day's outing at Jackson Park, $45; rental for horses at Lincoln Park, $32.

Little George learned yesterday that the money had belonged to his father. He appeared before Juvenile Judge Lambert K. Hayes to testify at the arraignment of big George, 19, the eldest of the boys, who was charged with larceny for his part in the depleting the jar. Little George's other pals were there, too.

$263 Recovered
Judge Hayes recovered $263 from them, then continued the case to give the boys' parents a chance to obtain a complete accounting. But before he recessed the court he called the boys before the bench.

"Can't you tell me what you did with the money," he asked.

Little George, Willie, Mattie, Jerry and Smokie recalled only a few minor items. Big George, who had declared himself bookkeeper when half the money had been spent, said he had kept a record of some expenditures. For example:

Aug. 7—(boat excursion to Milwaukee); boat fare, $6; state-room, $12; taxis, $5; food $13; would grant Soviet Russia landing rights in Alaska is not known. This government, it was believed, might hesitate because it probably would open the way to demands for similar rights from Japan.

State department officials were inclined to doubt the reports concerning Lindbergh's visit to Russia. They contended that there appears to be little demand for commercial air service with Russia, particularly by way of Siberia.

Scheme Not New

The scheme for a round-the-world air service, through Canada, Siberia and European countries, is not a new dream. It was learned that this idea has been considered by British Imperial Airways officials for some time. Officials see little commercial value in such an enterprise, although they admit that it might have some military virtues.

Bride, Now Widow

CINDERELLA bride of less than two weeks, Mrs. Laurie Macdonald Dodge, above, now is a widow following the drowning death of her husband, Daniel George Dodge, heir to a $9,000,000 automobile fortune, in Georgian bay, near Little Current, Ontario, Dodge, honeymooning with his bride, a former telephone operator at Gore Bay, suffered the loss of his arm and received a skull fracture when a stick of dynamite exploded. The youth then either jumped or fell into the bay as Mrs. Dodge and a friend were taking him to a hospital in a speedboat. Mrs. Dodge was injured.

SEARCHERS MAY FIND SOVIET ACE IN ALASKA RIVER

POINT BARROW, Alaska, Aug. 18—(UP)—A search party was en route to Oliktuk today to drag the mouth of the Colville river where a native reported a plane crashed a year ago.

Serg. Stanley Morgan of the U. S. army signal corps said it was possible the plane was that of Sigismund Levanovsky and five other Russians who disappeared Aug. 13, 1937, on a trans-polar flight from Moscow to the United States.

1,100 TO REAP BENEFITS

Ten Months To Be Needed
For Completion Of Program

CHILLICOTHE, Aug. 18.—Eleven hundred men on Works Progress Administration rolls here "got a break" Wednesday with receipt of word that a $500,000 road program had been approved at Washington.

Because WPA funds have been dwindling in Ross County, directors of the agency here have been staggering hours in order to keep the 100 workmen on the eligible lists. Now, however, it will be possible to boost the hours to full time. For the last week, workers had received only one hour's time credit in five days.

The new project is expected to run for 10 months, and through it, the county hopes to complete improvement of the Charleston pike, and these roads: Piney Creek, Three Locks, Little Walnut Creek, and Dry Run.

Additional roads embraced by the general projects are Denver Pike, Valley, Westfall, County Line, Hallsville-Whisper, North Branch of Piney Creek, Lick Run, Higby, Mt. Tabor, Wilson Run, Londonderry-Richmond Dale, West Junction, Spargursville - Nipgen, Owl Creek, and Walnut Creek.

Under the original road project here, the federal government spent $362,000 in Ross county and the county furnished $35,542.71.

NICKEL BOOSTS CHEMICAL TANK PLANT GROWTH

HATTISBURG, Miss.—(UP)—F. C. Glenn, who started a chemical tank farm after he saw one in a newsreel, has found that he raises stronger plants by adding nickel to his food-formula.

Last year, he left nickel out of the mixture and the plants developed such a pungent odor that bugs and insects left them alone. This year, a variety of caterpillar has infested his tomato beds, which no longer smell.

Glenn said he tried the nickel in the solution because, in combination with 16 other elements in the human body, it tended to promote stronger growth. He has found the same result from using it in his tank farm.

His tank farm so far is an experiment, and an expensive one at that. Straw and excelsior are used with the chemicals, and Glenn has found that the yield is about three times what it would be in the same amount of dirt farming. But there are the advantages of not having to depend on the weather, easy regulation of climatic conditions and control of insects. Tank farm crops might be marketed well ahead of field crops.

Eventually, Glenn believes, the cost of chemicals used in the solution will be reduced to the point where tank farmers can compete with dirt farmers.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES,
O. S. U. floriculturist

QUESTION: My Madonna lilies which have been noted in my community for their profusion of bloom, have been a complete failure this year. Would you recommend that I dig them up and try them in a new place?

ANSWER: Madonna lilies have been having a hard time the past few years due to one of two different diseases. I would suggest that all the diseased parts of these plants be cut off and burned and that as the new growth starts up early this fall, it and the ground around the plants be sprinkled with Bordeaux mixture. I do not, however, believe you will improve the lilies by digging up and replanting the bulbs.

QUESTION: I have a bed of very lovely roses, all good varieties, but they have absolutely no leaves on them except a little new growth at the tip. Can you give me any idea from this description as to what is wrong with them and how I may remedy it?

ANSWER: You, like most other folks who have roses, apparently do not realize that there are two very serious diseases which defoliate the rose most seasons. One is mildew, which appears as a white dusty effect on the surface of the leaves, and the other is black spot, which starts as a little black spot with yellow margin and soon affects the whole leaf and causes it to die.

First, I would recommend that you pick up all the leaves which have fallen and burn them that you apply sulphur, either using wettable sulphur as a spray or dusting sulphur with a dust gun to both the upper and under surface of the leaves; and that you apply this at least once a week and after each rain.

Incidentally, my own roses, although not growing in a particularly ideal location, have been kept perfectly healthy by this method. It is not necessary to put the sulphur on so thickly that it disfigures the foliage. I put on a very thin coating so that it is almost impossible to see it.

QUESTION: The flowers of my gladiolus are speckled with white and the tips of the leaves are speckled with white or light brown spots and they are gradually drying up. Can you tell me what is wrong with them?

ANSWER: Judging from the number of samples I have seen, you have an infestation of the gladiolus thrip, a tiny insect about one-sixteenth inch long, having very narrow, streamlined bodies, so small that most people do not see them. They spend the time when they are not eating, in the folds of the leaves where they are very difficult to reach with any spray. Incidentally, if you had treated your bulbs with bichloride of mercury before planting you could very easily have controlled this thrip. And it is now you will have to spray once a week with one tablespoon aris green, two pounds of brown sugar, and three gallons of water. May I suggest that you ask your county agricultural agent for Bulletin 76 on "The Control of Garden Insects and Diseases." This will give you complete information not only on control of gladiolus pests but on the more common pests of other garden plants. It is free for the asking.

QUESTION: Will you please send me some information on the care, fertilization, and pest control of cacti and succulents?

ANSWER: You will find complete information on this in our bulletin on House Plants published by the Agricultural Extension Service, which you may obtain from your county agricultural agent. His office probably will be either in the Court House or Post Office of your county seat.

ST. JOHN, N. B. (UP)—Declaring the church must cater to youth and youth favors spending Sunday with nature, Rev. Dr. E. H. Hamsay, president of the United Church Ministerial Association, said he would leave the recommendations for subsequent Sunday services to the young people of the congregation.

DEBT OF HONOR PAID TO TOWN

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—(UP)—Although he lived in America 40 years and won considerable fame as a consulting engineer, Henrik von Zernikow-Loss left his $192,000 estate to the small Norwegian town of Kristiansund to repay his father's debt.

Von Zernikow-Loss died at Oslo, Norway, June 28. He was 78 years old and never renounced his Norwegian citizenship. His will, probated here, disclosed that all but approximately 1 percent of his estate was placed in trust for Kristiansund because years ago his father failed in business there, causing severe financial losses to many friends.

"In placing my soul in God's hands," the will said, "I wish to say that the disposition of my means has been conceived as a duty I owe, with a view to repaying as far as it is within my power to do so, the losses suffered in my early childhood by several citizens of Kristiansund through a disastrous failure of my father, brought about by foreign business connections through no fault of his own."

"The many years since then have made it impossible for me to ascertain the different amounts or to reach the direct losers or their direct descendants, and I therefore leave my means to their city, which is the city of my birth, with the hope that they would, if they could, approve of my action."

Von Zernikow-Loss never married. A nephew Bjarn Loss of Lake City, Minn., received an annual income of $1,250 and a niece, Margit Loss, Lake City, was bequeathed $625 a year.

HIGHWAY-FERRY ROUTE AROUND GULF VISIONED

Proposed Roadway Of 4,000 Miles Would Have 280 Over Water

"REALITY OF TOMORROW"

Large Circular Journey To Be Provided Under Program

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—(UP)—A 4,000-mile "highway" encircling the Gulf of Mexico by way of Florida, Cuba and Mexico is envisioned by E. W. James, chief of the division of highway transport of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

"This road may be a dream today, but tomorrow it may be a reality," the engineer said. James first put forward the idea in an address at the opening of the Overseas Highway connecting the Florida mainland to Key West, and later explained it further to the United States.

"It has perhaps been the good fortune of road authorities of Florida to have hit upon a project in the Overseas Highway which may constitute the critical part of a highway that will be different from anything ever before attempted in this line," he said.

"This mere fact that the highway from the Florida mainland to Key West literally goes to sea makes it unique among highways of the world.

Connections by Ferry

"The fact that there are possible connections by ferry first to the island of Cuba and then between Cuba and the peninsula of Yucatan furnishes food for the imagination in visualizing this project that is certainly not present in any other undertaking now in the field of public works," he said.

The water distance on the entire proposed route would total only 280 miles. About 600 miles of new highway would have to be built through Yucatan. Good roads exist along the rest of the route.

Roughly, the highway would follow a large circular route around the Gulf. Starting at Key West, the traveler would ferry across to Havana, a distance of about 100 miles. Taking to the land again, he would traverse about one-fifth the length of the island to a point on Guadiana Bay.

Boarding another ferry, he would journey 180 miles across the Yucatan Channel to the Mexican mainland. During his brief voyage he would cross the path of the Spanish discoverers, conquistadores and buccaners.

"Unfortunately this country has few roads, although roads could easily be built, and today the easiest way and the only modern way of travel from the rest of Mexico to Yucatan is by steamer or airplane," James said.

"A road through this region passing up the Gulf to Vera Cruz would make it possible to visit only Chichen Itza but Palenque and the ruins in southeastern Oaxaca and western Chiapas.

Through Ancient Maya

"Tulum, Uxmal and Mayapan of ancient Maya would be brought within reach of the interested traveler by short connecting roads, and a rich and almost virgin field would be open to the archaeologist and to the historian.

"Most of these places are today

THE OLD HOME TOWN

Registered U. S. Patent Office

practically inaccessible except to the explorer," he said.

"A few miles below Vera Cruz, the present constructed highway terminates. From this point it is possible to drive into that port, established by Cortez as the first Spanish settlement in Mexico.

From Vera Cruz, the roads are open to Pueblo and Mexico City. Arriving in Texas, the traveler would journey east over the old Spanish Trail, passing the Spanish missions of San Antonio, part of the old Texan Republic and its battlefields, the Acadian lands of Louisiana and other historic points along the route.

Across to Jacksonville

Finally, he would arrive back in Florida at Jacksonville. Since the Overseas Highway was completed, the traveler can journey over excellent roads all the way to Key West, thus completing the circuit. James pointed out that persons wishing to travel from Jacksonville to Mexico City could save about 200 miles by using the "Gulf Highway" instead of making the trip entirely over land. At present, those wishing to go to Mexico must travel west along the edge of the Gulf of Mexico.

James said the 600 miles of new road that would have to be built would not be an exceedingly difficult task.

"If roads can be built through the mountains of Mexico for 135 miles, or if they can be built through Yucatan, and while the incredulous are still calling this road a figment of the imagination, the highway engineer may come along with his mathematics and his practical exactness and convert the dream into a structure of solid, enduring materials," he said.

U. S. AIR ARMS
BY 1940 VIEWED
AS MATCHLESS

Army Scheduled To Have
2,350 First Line,
700 Other Craft

MANY TO BE AVAILABLE

Super-Flying Dreadnaught
Envisioned By Uncle
Sam's Agents

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (UP)—The U. S. Army air corps, at a cost of hundreds of millions of dollars, will be the most modern and powerful military striking force in the world by 1940, according to the consensus of foreign military observers here.

By June 30, 1940, the army is scheduled to have a total of 2,350 "first line" fighting and bombing planes. In addition there will be more than 700 other planes of the "second line" that could be advantageously pressed into service in an emergency.

One of the outstanding features of the "first line" division will be its inclusion of at least 52 "flying fortresses" of the type which recently made a record one stop mass flight from Miami, Fla., to Buenos Aires—5,260 miles in 27 hours and 50 minutes flying time.

These streamlined, all-metal monoplanes, with a gross weight of more than 20 tons, a wing span of 105 feet and length of 70 feet, have established themselves as one of the most important cogs in the American defense machine. Military observers believe they are superior to any bombing planes possessed by foreign powers. They are powered by four 1,000-horsepower Wright "Cyclone" engines.

The army is experimenting with a much more powerful bomber than the "flying fortress," known as the "super-flying fortress," but has not yet put it into production. Experiments have shown that the latter type—said to be the most powerful military plane ever constructed—needs some changes, but generally has proved satisfactory and will be produced in increasing numbers next year.

The war department recently placed an order for 13 additional "flying fortresses," of the B-17 type. Thirteen of these ships were delivered to the army in 1937 and 26 more are in process of production, with deliveries scheduled to begin early in 1939. Delivery of the 13 additional fortresses just ordered will follow completion of the present order of 26. The entire fleet is expected to be completed early in 1940.

However, in view of their outstanding performance on one flight to and return from Buenos Aires and many recent transcontinental flights, it is considered likely that President Roosevelt may ask the next session of Congress for funds to increase the "fortress" fleet above 52.

The recent record-breaking round-the-world flight of Howard W. Hughes, millionaire sportsman, may have an important influence on future military airplanes. Aeronautical information obtained by Hughes on that flight was made available to the war and navy departments and is expected to prove highly valuable.

The sportsman-aviator's "flying laboratory" was equipped with navigating, direction-finding and other instruments which had never before been thoroughly tested. Also there were certain mechanical features of Hughes' plane that were completely new and may be incorporated in military bombing plane designs.

At present the army is giving special attention to a new type plane known as the "Aircuda," which is propelled by two "pusher" engines. The "Aircuda," although heavily armed with machine guns, is capable of tremendous speed—exceeding 300 miles an hour—and is said to be able to overtake any bombing plane now built.

A plane similar to the "Aircuda" is being thoroughly tested for stratosphere flying. This ship has a sealed cabin and, when perfected, probably will have a speed of nearly 400 miles an hour.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU
BY BOB BURNS

Jobs are pretty scarce now and you have'ta stand such a rigid examination to get one that you can't help wondering sometimes how some of the men got in.

Maybe it's like the time my Uncle Potchy put an ad in the paper for a farm hand and picked one man out of three that applied for the job. I was anxious to see how he went about gettin' the one he wanted, so I says, "Potchy, how did you know which of those fellas to pick?" And Uncle Potchy says, "Well, Robin, I put 'em to a little test. I asked 'em how many legs a giraffe had. One said four, one said five and the other said nine. You know which one I'm gonna hire?" And I said, "The one that said 'four' and Uncle Potchy said, 'No—the one that said 'five'—he's my wife's cousin.'"

Artist Has New Process
For Design Transfer

ATLANTA (UP)—An Atlanta artist has invented a process for decorating cloth that is attracting widespread attention throughout the country.

She is Miss Minna McLeod Beck, native of this city, who is noted as a teacher, writer and painter. She has headed art departments in schools from Pratt Institute in New York to the State Woman's College of Alabama, and has exhibited in museums throughout the country.

Recently, Miss Beck enlisted the aid of the textile department of Georgia Tech to obtain new materials to carry on her work.

She uses an air brush, similar to those used in spraying paint on houses and automobiles. With this she paints detail designs on cloth, ranging from sheer chiffons and organdies to heavy satins and homespuns.

Miss Beck also has decorated wallpaper, over-drapes, bedspreads and upholstery material, and has done murals for a room.

She points out that the air brush takes less time than when each painting is done by hand with a camel's hair brush, provides a smooth color and goes deep into the material.

When she desires a particular design, Miss Beck goes to the field and makes sketches, paying particular attention to colors, textures, etc.

Then, by a secret process, she transfers the painting to the cloth. The cloth is then fastened to a large easel that stands vertically.

She turns on the current and guides the tiny air brush by hand. The compressed air forces the dye through the gun and into the cloth at a pressure of 4 pounds, sufficient to drive the dye firmly into the cloth so that neither washing nor wear affects it.

Miss Beck works in smock, goggles, hood and nose guard. This is necessary because the air pressure fills the room with a fine spray of dye.

The process was evolved by Miss Beck when she was instructing a class in glazing pottery. A large commercial air brush was used to apply shellac to molded pottery, and from this she developed the delicate detail application of design to cloth.

Miss Beck is looking for a Georgia dye to use on the Georgia-made cloth that is taking on many gay designs through her skilled hands. She also plans to take charcoal drawings and etchings she has made of colonial mansions and Negro shanties and copy them on cloth.

Another interesting feature of her work is designing upholstery cloth for period and antique furniture.

Your Family's CONVENIENCE
BILL
NOT-Your Light Bill

Doubtless you have often heard friends and maybe you too, refer to our monthly statement as a light bill—when in reality it is a convenience bill.

Only a fraction of your total bill is for light—the remainder is for conveniences—conveniences such as your electric refrigerator, the mix-master, the sweeper, the fan, the coffee maker, and toaster, and the many other appliances which bring comforts and conveniences to your home—at the snap of a button.

Stop now, count the electrical conveniences you have in your home—you'll find that each of them cost you only a few pennies each month. If you were to hire manual labor to perform these household duties the cost would be prohibitive—but electricity does it for a minimum cost.

Why not take advantage of these inexpensive luxuries and conveniences by furnishing your home with more appliances—it is one sure way of making your home more comfortable and liveable.

SCHOTT TO WIN

STARTING ROLE

FOR CINCINNATI

CHICAGO, Aug. 18—(UP)—A radical realignment of the "big four" of the Cincinnati Reds' pitching staff was in prospect today as the proteges of Manager Bill McKechnie prepared to defend their newly won third place position against the Chicago Cubs in the final game of an abbreviated series.

The Reds moved into third place, one-half a game ahead of the Cubs, here yesterday when they beat Chicago 8 to 4. A great relief hurling job by Gene Schott brought the victory and resulted in McKechnie considering the reshaping of his mound corps for the stretch drive.

Schott went to the aid of the wobbling "Bucky" Walters with two men out in the fifth inning and pitched near-perfect ball the remainder of the way. Schott permitted only one hit and gave up two bases on balls during the 4 1/2 innings he worked. The Cubs were not able to get a runner to second base during his tenure in the box.

The performance definitely stamped Schott as ready for regular work and McKechnie indicated the young right-hander would now be used as a starting pitcher. In that role he will team with the veteran Paul Derringer, the ace of the Reds' staff and one of the league's top pictures, and a pair of young left-handers Lee Grissom and Johnny Vander Meer.

AMBERS LOSES GREAT BATTLE TO ARMSTRONG

Return Fight Certain; Judges

And Referee Disagree Over Decision

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—(UP)—

The blood was barely dry today on the canvas where two great little men fought and bled, but the crowd was roaring for a return bout between Lou Ambers and Henry Armstrong.

"I'll challenge for the title immediately," said Ambers, peering out at you from eyes surrounded by angry, crimson gashes. "Any time, any place," said Armstrong through puffed, painful lips.

Unless Promoter Mike Jacobs has lost his skilled touch on the pulse of the public, the boys will be in there again some evening. It has been many a day since fight spectators saw anything to equal what happened last night at Madison Square Garden inside the square of ropes that for some strange reason is called a ring.

Great Fight Witnessed

They saw Armstrong, featherweight and welterweight champion, win the lightweight championship and become the first man ever to hold three titles at the same time. They saw Ambers, knocked clear across the ring once and knocked down twice, get up off the floor and shake the blood out of his eyes and come back to within a whisker of winning the fight. They saw two men who were bleeding, leg-weary and gulping breath into burning lungs, stand toe to toe and slug for 10 seconds after the fight was over. No matter what a man paid to get into the Garden last night, he got his money's worth.

Armstrong got the lightweight title. Ambers got the cheers. He was never more popular than at the moment when Madison Square Garden, a roaring, crazy place where men were throwing their hats away and women were screaming, went suddenly quiet and a voice boomed through the loudspeakers:

"The winner and new lightweight champion of the world—Henry Armstrong!"

"Boo, boo, boo!" the roar of the crowd came rolling down from the rafters and Ambers stood there in a sweaty blue bathrobe with the empty look on his face of a man who has just had bad news. Then he shuffled across the ring and stuck out his hand toward Armstrong and in those 10 paces he walked into the hearts of those who saw it.

One thin round decided the fight. Judge Marty Monroe gave the decision to Ambers, eight rounds to seven; Judge George Lecor gave Armstrong eight rounds. Ambers six and called one even. That left it up to Referee Bill Cavanaugh who gave Armstrong seven, Ambers six and called two even. The United Press score sheet gave Armstrong eight, Ambers five and called two even.

Many Punches Low

The Marquis of Queensberry would not have approved of everything that happened. Armstrong was throwing punches dangerously low and lost three rounds because he fouled Ambers. Rights and lefts went pumping into Ambers' stomach so fast that once he took eight blows before he could give one.

Everybody expected Armstrong to fight that way. He never took

ANTI-LITTERING MEASURE LOSES IN COUNCIL, 1-6

W. M. Reid Only Solon To Vote For Ordinance Hitting Handbills

POWER CONTRACT READ

Officials Seek Agreement For Operation Of Lift Station

Councilmen gave the anti-bill passing ordinance a "loss" Wednesday night, defeating the legislation by a vote of six to one. The only vote cast for the ordinance was by William M. Reid, who introduced it in council.

The ordinance was offered to eliminate distribution of handbills and other advertising matter in public places and in or on parked automobiles. Violators would face possible fines of $5 to $50.

It had been given two readings in council and was read for the third time Wednesday night by Clerk Fred Nicholas. No remarks were made by councilmen before the vote was taken.

At the time the ordinance was presented Mr. Reid explained that the service department had considerable difficulty keeping the streets clean.

An ordinance providing a contract with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. to provide electricity for the operation of the Hargus creek lift station in connection with the disposal plant project was given a second reading. The rates to be charged are the same as those provided in a contract passed recently for power for the disposal plant.

ANGLER CLAIMS 'GATOR AS PET

GREENWELL SPRINGS, La., Aug. 18—(UP)—Whenever Ray Allen goes fishing, his pet alligator waddles out of the creek and remains on the bank beside him.

It might be that the tough-hided "Joe" waits for the fish Allen hands out before he knocks down his tackle and heads for home.

However, Allen doesn't think so. He believes that the alligator has become a pet.

"Why, the other day I gave him some beef that had ants on it," Allen said. "He took it into the water as if to eat it, but spit it back instead. When he came back by me on the bank I thought I could almost see a look of reproach in his eyes."

The friendship started a month ago when "Joe" straddled a log in Amite river and watched Allen haul in a good catch. Finally, the alligator was offered a perch. He snapped it politely, Allen said. Since then, Allen has made no

OHIO GIRLS BEST JUDGE OF STOCK IN COMPETITION

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18—Evidence that Ohio 4-H club girls are good judges of livestock was turned in again at the judging contests in Wooster when Ruth Nickerson, Revenna, had the highest individual score of any of the 91 club contestants.

Another score for feminine judges was turned in by Rebecca Frazier, Nashport, who was a member of the team which stood second in the group contest. The Wyandot county team with members George Rebolt, Upper Sandusky; Herschel Trease, same city; and Merlyn Buess, Forest, won first place with a score of 945.

Muskingum county claimed both second and third place teams. Team mates with Rebecca Frazier on the second place team were Richard Frazier, Nashport; and Lyle McCormick, Norwich. Third high ranking went to Clay McCormick, Norwich; Glen Mozena, Adamsville; and Verne Tom, Zanesville.

Trumbull county won fourth place and Geauga was fifth. The first place team received a trophy and the next four team were awarded certificates of merit. The contests were sponsored by the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station and the State Dairymen's Association.

fishing trips without his alligator. No matter where he stops to fish, the alligator will soon nose out of the water, crawl up close to Allen and lie regarding him with sleepy eyes.

Others in the neighborhood have tried to capture the four-foot gator without success.

Some time ago, Allen brought a rifle along to shoot striped-head turtles that eat game fish.

MONTREAL MAPS AIDS TO SAFETY

MONTREAL, Aug. 18 (UP)—One of the greatest drives ever undertaken in Canada to reduce the motoring accident and death toll is to be opened by police here.

The campaign, organized secretly upon the orders of Director of Police Fernand Dufresne, involves appointment of the first police "traffic engineer" in Canada, setting up of a motoring "rogues' gallery," and taking of a complete census of accidents at street intersections throughout the city. It is the result of 6,441 city accidents in which 76 were killed and 2,786 injured last year. The goal of the campaign is a 50 to 60 percent reduction in accidents.

The city's first police traffic engineer is Howard M. A. Baker, who was sent to the Harvard University's bureau for street traffic research to study for one year. His official title is "Traffic Engineer of the Montreal Police Department"—the first such police post ever created in Canada. To Analyze Accidents Bakers task will be to undertake engineering studies and analyses of accidents to ascertain their causes and to develop remedial measures. The studies include volume statistics of direction and turning movements of vehicles, speed figures, vehicle and pedestrian observance of traffic lights and stop signs, pedestrian movements, and parking practices.

Collision diagrams will be used to show the accident experience at certain areas and to bring out any outstanding similarity of accidents. Condition diagrams will be used to depict the physical condition in hazardous locations with a view of localizing conditions that might have a direct bearing on accidents, such as a high hedge at a street corner which cuts down visibility, causing right-angled collisions.

Rogues' Gallery Set Up The motoring "rogues' gallery" will contain the list of offenses committed by all motorists. In future, when a Montreal motorist is brought to trial on some charge associated with an auto accident, police will be able to supply the man's motoring "record" and if it is bad it will go against him.
